Porterhouse steaks are a pretty wellknown commodity, and although they cannot, like the sirloin, boast of having been knighted, yet their fame and reputation are every bit as good. In point of fact, the "porterhouse" is an American discovery, with an American name. They were first cut about the year 1814, in the old Fly Market, in New York City, which was immortalized in a rather free ballad that was in vogue about the same time, commen-

I take this opportunity to bear testimony to the efficacy of your "Hop Bittera." Expecting to find them nauseous and bitter and composed of bad whisky, we were agreably surprised at their mild taste just like a cup of tea. A Mrs. Cresswell and a Mrs. Connor, friends, have likewise tried, and pronounce them the best medicine they have ever taken for building up strength and toning up the system. I was troubled with costiveness, headache and want of appetite. The two former ailments are gone, and the latter greatly improved. Postage Stamps.

Postage stamps are printed from en-graved plates under a hydraulic press on paper especially prepared for this purpose.

Two hundred stamps are printed on one sheet at each motion of the press. The colors used in the inks are ultramarine blue, prussian blue, chrome yellow and prussian blue (green), vermillion, and carmine. The sheets are gummed separately; they are placed back upward upon a flat wooden support, the edges being protected by a metalic frame, and the gum—composed of an aqueous solution of gum dextrine with a little acetic acid and alcohol—is applied with a wide brush. It dries quickly, and then the sheets are pressed. Eack sheet is cut in half, and is then ready for the perforating machine.

This perforating machine was in-vented and patented by a Mr. Archer in 1852. The patent was purchased by the government for twenty thousand dollars. The perforations are effected by passing the sheets between two cylinders provided with a series of raised bands which are adjusted to a distance apart equal to that required between the rows of perforations. Each ring on the upper clyinder has a series of cylindrical projections which fit corresponding depressions in the bands of the lower cylinder; by these the perforations are punched out, and by a sim-ple contrivance the sheet is detached from the cylinders in which it has been conducted by an endless band. The rows running longitudinally of the pa-per are first made, and then by a simi-lar machine the transverse ones.

The sheets are finally subjected t heavy pressure, by which the roughness caused by the punching operation and other manipulations is removed.
